

Christianity & Culture

Although my current work on wisdom-based international relations and foreign policy keeps me busy full time, I still like to find time write about the aspects Christianity that interest me outside of IR and FP. From time to time I will post these published writings on this page, so do check back when you can.

Comments are welcome for any of these articles, which you can do alongside any of them.

By perusing the list of Interviews, you may also find topics of interest.